THE SCHOOL GUARDIANS.

High School,

Mr. Johnson submitted a report from the committee on ways and means, suggesting that, to secure a uniformity in drawing upon the school funds for the necessary articles for school purposes, the commissioners be requested to submit to the trustees all requisitious sent them. Referred. The committee expressed regret at its inability to furnish proper data for the commissioners as to the wants of the schools, on account of there being no uniform method in making requisitions for the same.

The annual report of the board, although prepared, was held back, as it was deemed best that it should be revised by the committee before being submitted. The board then adjourned.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING COMPANY. Meet Public Demand.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the United States Electric Lighting Company was held yesterday afternoon, and the following named gentlemen were elected a board of directors for the ensuing year: Messrs. Samuel Norment, Matthew G. Emery. John A. Ruff, Wm. Dickson, Frank B. Conger, Seymour W. Tulloch, Clarence F. Norment, and A. M. Renshaw. The president, Samuel Norment, presented a report showing the progress made by the company since the disastrons have of July, 1885. The receipts for the past year were $49.056.97, and the expensitures, of every description, $28.815.47. Regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 per share had been paid during the year. He urged the adoption of a plan to be considered by the stockholders for the enlargement of the plant, and providing facilities for furnishing incandescent light, to meet the increasing demands of the public, and predicted that by cunning and prudent management Company was held yesterday afternoon formed themselves into a company. They propose to give their organization a name that will indicate that they are the members of the alumni of the high school.

Last night the school board granted the members the use of the High School Cadeta' drill room, arms, and accouterments, provided that the expenses attending the same be defrayed by the company. The members propose to drill twice a week. The company starts out with a membership of between forty and fifty. The officers will be elected at the next meeting. The uniform will be similar to that of the High School Cadets. It is proposed to enlarge the company into a battalion by the admission into ranks of the graduates and undergraduates of the school. Drills will be held twice a week, and the company proposes to enter the military drill contest that takes place here next May.

THREE ORPHANS.

What They Said to Each Other in Willard's Botunda. A vicarious representative of the Ruron LICAN saw the other day in Willard's lobby what might be irreverently described as ministure resurrection. There stood in the ministure resurrection. There stood in the rotunda three—enough to make a crowd or a conspiracy—politicians of the olden times. Their aggregate ages summed up 314 years. First, there was John Harmon, of Detroit, aged 70; second, A. M. Clapp, of Washington, 75, and third and last, but not least, Ward Lamon, now of Deaver, 60.
Said Mr. Harmon to Mr. Clapp, "Didn't you come over with Columbus?"

"No," was the answer: "but I was present, John when you killed your Cousin Tecumseh."

ent, John when you killed your Cousin Tecumseh."
"I rather remember that incident," chimed in Col. Lamon.
"Yes," said Harmon, "you were known as a kid from Martinsburg in those times."
And then these resurrected fell to talking politics. They talked about Jackson, Pierce, Lincoln, Dougias, and other bygone, if not forgotten, leaders of their day, inally branching off into politico-personal reminiscences. Mesers, Lamon and Clapp were at the birth, or several birthplaces of the Republican party, and told all about it. Mr. Harmon was at the birth of the Democracy, and one of the numerous putative

Mr. Harmon was at the birth of the Democracy, and one of the numerous putative fathers thereof. He told all about that. Then the venerable Buffalonian declared his Whig subsceedents, whereupon the ponderous ex-marshal asserted that he had presided way back when the idea of honest elections was first invented.

"Oh, yes!" said Harmon, "that was B. C."

"Please, sir!" pleaded a beggar boy to Harmon at this juncture, "please, sir, give me a nickel? I'm a orphan."

"Why, my boy, I'm in the same category myself," was the reply.

"You look like it." rejoined the boy, "fer yer old enough to've been private secretary to Ponchus Pliut."

"Go 'long, you young scoundrel," exretary to Ponchus Pilut."

"Go 'long, you young scoundrel," exclaimed Harmon, "1 never talk politics with my juniors."

It turned out though, that all three of the venerable crphaus chipped in and gave the young mendicant a dime apiece. After this interruption the conversation was resumed.

this interruption the conversation was resumed.

"You're getting out a new edition of your lafe of Lincoln, aren't you'p' asked Mr. Clapp of Col. Lamon.

"Yes, I'm revising it: have finished its revision in fact. You see, I told the whole truth in the first edition in too plain a style, and now I've been rounding off some of the rough edges. Though I do say it myself, it's the best biography of Mr. Lincoln extant, and will soon be in the hands of my publishers."

"I traveled with Douglas during his famous discussion with Lincoln," remarked Mr. Harmon.

"And I traveled with Lincoln," said Lamon.

Lamon.
"Well," rejoined Mr. Clapp, "I went to the Chicago convention for Seward!"—
"And Lincoln made you postmaster,"

"And Lincoln made you postmaster," interrupted Harmon.
"He did," was the reply, "for two terms. But that's no more than you've done, Harmon, save that Frank Pierce didn't appoint you collector."
"By the way, Harmon, if I remember rightly," said Lamon, "you were once the most unanimously nominated man in the country." "Yes; that I was," be replied. "The second time I ran for mayor the Democrats nominated me, the Whigs did the same, and finally a Protestant ticket was put up and finally a Protestant tloket was put up with my name at the head of it. There were no more nominations to be made, or I'd have received them."

"Evidently," interjected Lamon, "the Protestants didn't know of your 'Ponchus Pflut' record."

"You're right; they didn't, but I let the Hebrewa know all about that and polled nearly every vote in the city."

"I say, Harmon, do you remember before the railroads were built," asked Mr. Clapp, "how we traveled by lake from Buffalo to Detroit, you pushing the Free Press and I the Express ""

"Of course be does," chuckled Lamon. "he remembers from way back, before the "he remembers from way back, before the flood."

"Let me tell you now," replied Harmon, "I'm not so young as I used to be, but I'm the only man alive to-day who has attended every Democratic national convention held in this country. Tom Hendricks was the last of my contemporaries, and I expect to live to see many more of them." "Well," replied Mr. Clapp, "I can say almost as much for myself regarding Republican national conventions."

"Being the only young man in the party," remarked Lamon, "it cannot be expected of me that I should claim so much for myself. But here, Harmon, it appears that Carlisle's coming back to Congress on crutches."

D-d if I don't believe the whole party'll be on crutches pretty soon," said Harmon. "But the lamer it is the better the fight it

"I'll be on hand, though," prophesical Lamon, "to write your biography, John." "The heavens forefeed!" rejoined John. "In that event I want to live forever." Then the three orphans stroiled out of the rotunda, all rotund, all straight as so many arrows—Mr. Clapp with his snow-white locks, Col. Lamon with grizzled hair and beard, and the ex mayor, the oldest, the straightest, the most stalwart of them all, with his long hair almost as black as a raven's wing, making a tableau, as it were, rarely to be seen in any community out-side of Washington. Volumes upon volumes could be written of their joint and several experiences, but it was a gratifying sight to see them hale and hearty, in good spirits, full of humor, and in the enjoyment of the best of health.

Report of the Fifth Auditor.

Fifth Auditor Eichhoff in his annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury shows that during the last iscal year 10,833 accounts were setted in his office, involving $810,885,211. In the consular service the expenditures were $850,600, being $10,805 in excess of the recolors. The amount of consular fees collected during the year was $831,500, an increase ever the previous year of $90,221. This increase arises room estilicates to involves which were issued in greater number than ever before. The auditor says it is worthy of commont that not-withstanding the very considerable decrease in the tariff of fees in 1831, and the abolishment of charges for services to American vesis in 1884, the fees in lest, and that year little short of the receipts for any year since. A greater number of seamen were relieved during the year than during the year 1854, and a lister number were shipwrecked, and the expenses necessarily have been greater, while difficulties in collecting wages in cases of ships reck have distinished the resources for relief; 1,25 seamen were relieved, as against 1171 in 1850, 821 were shipwrecked, as against 1171 in 1850, 821 were shipwrecked, as against 169 in 1850. Among the Items of expense in the foreign service were $15,825 for extending the commerce of the United States in the Cougo valley; $2,560 for transporting remains of ministers and consults to their homes for interment; $560 for steam launch for legation at Constantinople; $1,512 for procuring evidence in French spellation chains, and $1,024 for preventing the spread of epidemics. Report of the Fifth Auditor.

Total Collections From Internal Revenue.
The total collections from internal revenue The total collections from internal revenue from the time the present system was organized, July 1, 1862, up to June 30, 1886, were $5,435,500,655. The states in which the aggregate collections reached over $100,000,000 were. New York, $506,700,000 fromsylvania $228,500,000 Ohio, $377,600,000 Fernaylvania $228,500,000, Kentincky, $201,800,000 Massechusetts, $19,500,000, Yelginia, $195,500,000, indiana, $118,000,000, Yelginia, $195,500,000, and Your Jersey, $101,700,000. "The aggregate receipts from internal revenue," 'remarked an other of the treasury to day, 'were sufficient to have said the outlie public debt at he highest floors, $2,700,401,571, and leave a balance of $181,500,800, if they had been applied to that purpose." THE NEW PRINCETON REVIEW. Published six times a year. November, $1 prin. New York: A. C. Armstro 714 Broadway. From the publish Though this is marked No. 6 of volume 2 and called "New," the Princeton has really existed sixty-one years. During all that time its words of wisdom and pleasantness have been welcomed by exploring and thoughtful minds, nor ever more warmly thoughtful minds, nor ever more warmly greeted than now.

Among the most interesting and valuable papers here presented are "The Modra Novel," Thomas Sergeant Perry; "The Resurrection of Buried Languages," Fracis Brown; "The Enlistment of Lafayette, 1776," Bayard Tuckermon, and "Mailame Lareveilliere," Grace King, "Criticiams, Notes, and Reviews" diseass topics of the time. The "Record" and "Analytical Index" are instructive and useful.

FREUND'S MUSIC AND DRAMA. New York 88 Firth avenue. Nov. 6, 10 cents, From the publishers. Loving, passionately loving music and the drams, which we regard as the great civilizers and preachers, welcome is Fraud's, and we shall never weary of its Freezed's, and we shall never weary of its visits. This number, as usual with each number, gives the latest intelligence, reliable always, on these two grand subjects. Every such communication must be cordially received by many thousands. A fine portrait of William Warren, the famous actor, with biographical sketch, ornaments the periodical at this time.

THE AMERICAN KINDERGARTEN AND PHIMARY TRACHER November, 10 cents, Fowler & Wells Co., New York, 763 Broadway. From the publishers. All kind and thoughtful people should be interested in the cause advocated by this excellent monthly magazine—the pleasant and extrain improvement of childhood's mind and manuers. Let mothers especially give it attention; then, of course, the fam-ily will follow. Much good may be done for the little impressible world around us, line and do it.

Rise and do it. GRAPHICNEWS. Nov. 6. 10 cents, Chicago. From the publishers. The stirring topics of the time, vividly elated in print, and vigorously illustrated n picture. No. 3 of representative portraits now appears. It is the kind, calm, intel-ectual face of Miss Frances E. Willard.

near Fifteenth and B streets northwest at 4 p. m. yesterday. Fire barrels washed with nas all were plied together and set on fire. Mr. J. W. St. Clair, ir., the Eclipse agent, thereupon proceeded to work the machine, which quickly put the flames to flight. The test was repeated reveral times, to the editleation and complete satisfaction of the speciators. The Eclipse extinguisher weighs forry pounds, and is divided into two compartments. On one side alum is inserted, on the other blear-honate of seda. In the center of the machine is a double-power force pump, and its action unites the chemicals, forming non-corrosive earfolk neid gas. This is forced through a small noise to a distance of thirty feet. The RICUSLICAN believes it a good thing to have in the bouse in case of fire. Among those present were Chief Parris, Maj. Blacce, Allison Nailor, jr., Wim. Childs, and J. W. S. Clair, jr. The various hotels had representatives on the grounds, and there was also present several newspaper men.
